

“Changing Planet: Network for Young Photographers”

International photo marathon
“Humanity and nature - an everlasting conflict?”
from October 10, 0.00h to October 11, 24.00h 2020

“Changing Planet - Network for Young Photographers” aims to bring the human-nature relationship into focus by using the medium of photography. As a global network, “Changing Planet” shows the effects of our actions on the local levels of the individual actors. With photographic educational projects, exhibitions and symposia, we especially want to reach the younger generation and offer them a platform to train and present their skills.

We invite everyone interested in photography, up to the age of 27, to take photos of the aforementioned topic.

The photos can deal with current topics such as soil sealing, sustainability or the beauty of nature.

The winning images will be selected by a jury and presented in an exhibition in January-February, 2021 in Berlin.

Categories:

-Up to 18 years: Series and single images (3 photos maximum) can be sent in

-19-27 years: Series (3 photos maximum) can be sent in

Our jury:

Maximilian Mann. Documentary photographer, winner of the World Press Photo Award, the Sony World Photography Award and the Voies OFF Award.

Sandra Bergemann. Photo artist, has implemented numerous exhibition projects.

Jon A. Juárez. Photographer and videographer working on environmental and natural topics and regional leader at the German Society for Nature Photography.

Ulrich Nowikow. Head of the Kienbergpark Environmental Education Centre.

The jury is looking forward to your submissions by October 12, 2020, 6 p.m!
